

The London Psychogeographical Association

The London Psychogeographical Association was founded in July 1957 in Cosio d'Arroscia. It swiftly fused with the Situationiste Internationale. It was revived August 1992 as a completely independent organisation. This was celebrated with a cycle trip to the cave at Raisia's Cross, at Royston, to coincide with the conjunction of Venus and Jupiter.

The Archaeogeodetic Association

Founded in September 1992, the Archaeogeodetic Association (AgA) is a world organisation devoted to researching long-distance alignments of important sites. The AgA actively seeks cross-fertilisation with other research fields, such as archaeoastronomy, mundane astrology, parapsychology and psychogeography. It is hoped that forthcoming trips to Rennes-le-Chateau (France) and the Sinai Peninsular (Egypt) will be arranged.

The above organisations can be contacted through the publishers.
